

Barry Smith, Editor

Foundations of Gestalt Theory

With contributions by

Christian von Ehrenfels

Kurt Grelling

Paul Oppenheim

Kevin Mulligan

Peter Simons

Barry Smith

Philosophia Verlag München Wien

Contents

Preface	9
Barry Smith
Gestalt Theory: An Essay in Philosophy
§ 1. Introduction	11
§ 2. Christian von Ehrenfels: The Theory of Gestalt Qualities	14
§ 3. Husserl and Meinong: Moments of Unity and Higher Order Objects	18
§ 4. Carl Stumpf and the Natural Philosophy of Gestalten	23
§ 5. The Graz Production Theory: From Benussi to Kanizsa	26
§ 6. Causality, Emotions and Gestalt Linguistics	32
§ 7. From Graz to Berlin: Koffka vs. Benussi	37
§ 8. From Prague to Berlin: Stumpf and Wertheimer	44
§ 9. The Veridicality of Perception	47
§ 10. Edwin Rausch: The Ontological Morphology of Gestalten	50
§11. Reference Systems and Paradigm Change	58
§12. The Varieties of Order	61
§13. On Gestalt Aesthetics	66
§14. Conclusion	69
Notes	72
References	79

Christian von Ehrenfels

On 'Gestalt Qualities'

§ 1. Introduction: Mach on the Sensation of Melodies and Spatial Shapes	82
§ 2. The Presentation of a Melody. The Thesis of Gestalt Qualities	84
§ 3. Some Objections to the Thesis	86
§ 4. Proof of the Existence of Gestalt Qualities	90
§ 5. Types of Gestalt Quality	93

§ 6. Non-Temporal Gestalt Qualities	94
§ 7. Temporal Gestalt Qualities	97
§ 8. Relations of Comparison and of Incompatibility	101
§ 9. Gestalt Qualities of Higher Order	105
§10. Apprehension and Creation of Gestalt Qualities	108
§11. Epilogue	114
Notes	117

Christian von Ehrenfels
Gestalt Level and Gestalt Purity	118

Christian von Ehrenfels
On Gestalt Qualities (1932)	121

Kevin Mulligan and Barry Smith
Mach and Ehrenfels: The Foundations of Gestalt Theory
§ 1. Preamble	124
§ 2. The Problem of the Perception of Complexes	125
§ 3. The Analysis of Sensations	129
§ 4. On Gestalt Qualities	130
§ 5. Mach's Philosophy of Science	135
§ 6. Mach and the Brentano Tradition	137
§ 7. Mach on Variation	139
§ 8. Mach on Dependence	140
§ 9. Variation and Dependence in the Brentano Tradition	142
§10. On the Concept of Substance	144
§11. On the Nature of Dependence	145
§12. Epilogue	150
Notes	151
References	155

Peter M. Simons
Gestalt and Functional Dependence
§1. Preamble: The Grelling/Oppenheim Gestalt Papers	158
§2. What's in a Name?	160
§3. On Defining 'Gestalt'	162
§4. Ehrenfels' Conditions on Gestalten	164
§5. Determinables and Determinates	169
§6. Functional Dependence	174

§7. Is the Concept of Gestalt Really Necessary?	181
Notes	187
References	189

Kurt Grelling and Paul Oppenheim

s Concept of Gestalt in the Light of Modern Logic

Introduction	191
Main Part	192
§1. Complex	193
§2. Articulation	194
§3. Correspondence	194
§4. Gestalt	196
§5. Determinational System	199
III. Results	203
IV. Discussion (K. Diirr, A. Naess)	204
Notes	204

Kurt Grelling and Paul Oppenheim

Supplementary Remarks on the Concept of Gestalt

§ 1. Purposes of the Subsequent Table	206
§2. Brief Explanation of the Table	206
§3. Remarks Suggested by a Discussion	207
Table	208
Notes	209

Kurt Grelling and Paul Oppenheim

Logical Analysis of 'Gestalt' as Functional Whole'

§1. Aim of the Present Paper	210
§2. Provisional Explanation of 'Interdependence' and 'Independence'	210
§3. Definition of 'Dependence', 'Interdependence' and 'Independence'	211
§4. Different Modifications of 'Dependence' and 'Interdependence'	211
§5. System and Dependence System	212
§6. Determinational System	213
§7. Functional Language and World-Line Language	213
§ 8. Applications of our Definitions	214
Notes	215

Kurt Grelling
A Logical Theory of Dependence
§1. Introduction	217
§2. Dependence	218
§3. Vardep and Equidep	221
§4. Equivardep	223
§5. Related Notions	224
§6. Logical and Causal Dependence	225
§7. Concluding Remark	225
Notes	225
Barry Smith
Gestalt Theory and Its Reception: An Annotated Bibliography	227
Index	479
List of Sources	495