

The Future of Classification

edited by

Rita Marcella and Arthur Maltby

Gower

Contents

Notes on contributors	vii
Introduction Rita Marcella and Arthur Maltby	xi
1 Do we still need classification? Eric Hunter	1
2 Organizing knowledge: the need for system and unity Arthur Maltby and Rita Marcella	19
3 Can classification yield an evaluative principle for information retrieval? Julian Warner	33
4 Information technology and new directions Robert Newton	43
5 Classification and the Internet Alan MacLennan	59
6 The future of faceted classification A. C. Foskett	69
7 The Dewey Decimal Classification in the twenty-first century Joan S. Mitchell	81
8 UDC in the twenty-first century I. C. McIlwaine	93

9	The Library of Congress Classification	105
	Lois Mai Chan and Theodora L. Hodges
10	Sources for investigating the development of bibliographic classification	129
	M. P. Satiya
	Index	141