

258939

QP 624 K96

The brand is the company driver
in the new value economy

Unique now

...or never

 HOCHSCHULE
LIECHTENSTEIN
Bibliothek

FINANCIAL TIMES

Prentice Hall

An imprint of PEARSON EDUCATION
London · New York · New Delhi · Madrid · Paris · Toronto · Sydney · Tokyo
Singapore · Hong Kong · Cape Town · Amsterdam · Munich · Milan · Stockholm

Contents

Preface · 9

INTRODUCTION

Brand-U-Nique · 11

How metaphysical is your company? · 12

CHAPTER

1

Believe or leave · 17

What do you want to bring to the world? · 19

How would you like to make your breakthrough? · 20

Would you like to be unique? · 21

Brands are bigger than nation states · 21

A future without USPs · 23

Porter is right · 26

CHAPTER

2

Beyond the product economy · 35

Attractively valuable · 36

The old focus · 38

How do you want to own the customer? · 41

The misery of Levi-Strauss · 49

CHAPTER

3

Entering the value economy · 53

The night-and-day wide-open world · 58

Shorter chains · 58

Living with the new value economy · 64

Mind space – not awareness · 66

Personal brand mosaics · 69

CHAPTER

4

Navigating from the old to the new · 73

A gradual transition from old to new · 75

Break the branding law · 78

Case – LEGO: Who are we? · 81

PART

1

Creating a global brand with a unique value

CHAPTER

5

Growth via one high-value brand · 97

What optimizes the value of a brand? · 98

The broad positions · 100

The unique value · 103

The important lesson taught by Virgin · 104

The brand must be self-aware · 106

CHAPTER

6

Defining brand position · 109

Express yourself very clearly · 111

Case – Danone: Combining branding with a clear value position · 115

Are you prepared? · 120

The manager is the glue · 122

Express the soul · 122

CHAPTER

7

Brand = corporate personality · 125

Spiritual intelligence · 128

Entering into the spirit of the company · 130

Case – Bang & Olufsen: Three powerful values · 132

-
- PART 2 Create a brand system ensuring that the brand values are controlled
-
- CHAPTER 8 Aligning the brand and the values · 139
Plenty of room for differentiation · 140
The starting point is the value position · 141
- CHAPTER 9 Creating a corporate brand · 147
Case – Heinz: When ketchup is a corporate brand · 150
Can consumers remember your brand? · 153
Corporate branding – a strategic choice · 155
Case – TINE: A successful Corporate brand · 157
Corporate branding increases both value and risk · 162
Uncover the pitfalls · 163
- CHAPTER 10 Corporate brand with gradation · 165
Case – Audi: Branding with numbers and letters · 169
Case – Mercedes-Benz: The Mercedes value position – a study in stardom · 172
Case – Levi's: Blue jeans USA · 177
- CHAPTER 11 Corporate brand with generic names · 181
No waste – only strength · 182
Case – SAS: SAS regains control over its brand · 186
Case – Virgin: Against the conventions · 193

CHAPTER

12

Corporate brand with differentiation · 197

Don't be afraid of the logo · 198

Strong brand development in the clothes market · 200

Case – Giorgio Armani: When a fashion brand expands · 201

CHAPTER

13

Corporate brand with sub-brands · 209

Case – Kellogg's: A bowl full of brands · 212

Think carefully when combining · 217

Case – The Body Shop · 220

CHAPTER

14

Corporate brand with endorsing · 227

Volkswagen does it aggressively · 229

Case – VW: Success via strong brands · 231

Nestlé endorses defensively · 235

Use the corporate brand with care · 237

Case – Nestlé: Everything under one hat · 239

CHAPTER

15

One product, one brand · 245

Strong position and profile · 247

One-style, one-brand · 249

Case – P & G: Procter & Gamble · 251

CHAPTER

16

Structuring the company with a brand system · 255

The brand system and buying up · 259

Case – Unilever: · 263

Danone's organic brand system · 266

Branding and mergers · 267

Case – PricewaterhouseCoopers · 272

Redefining the company · 279

Believe or beat it · 280

Take stock and do something now · 283

The brand value chain: the new corporate strategy · 287

Innovation is not a solution · 288

The world is impenetrable without values · 293

Identify the carriers of value · 297

Who manipulates who? · 298

About the creation of internal communication systems · 300Brand relation management (BRM): redefining the way to market · 303

The great one-to-one flop · 306

Technologies are not gods · 308

The value position is sacred · 308

Brand relation management · 309

Find a better way to the market · 312

Redefining the organization · 315

Invest in mind space · 317

Say things the way they are · 318

The new nerve centre · 321

CHAPTER 21 Redefining leadership · 329
Only the few express the future clearly · 331
Management via the brand · 335

CHAPTER 22 Redefining market boundaries · 337
Create involvement or get driven out of business · 341
Value positions redefine markets · 343
The product value chain is pointless · 346
See you in the value economy · 346