

The Enclosed Garden

History and Development of the Hortus Conclusus and its Reintroduction into the Present-day Urban Landscape

Rob Aben and Saskia de Wit

• HOCHSCHULE
LIECHTENSTEIN
Bibliothek

A room with no ceiling	9
The enclosed garden	10
Acceleration and deceleration	11
The enclosed garden as paradox	13
Endlessness and enclosure	14
Analysing the enclosed garden	16
Garden catalogue or design challenge	19
The hortus conclusus as landscape-architectural model	21
Exploring the field	22
The hortus conclusus in the Middle Ages: a sanctuary in an inhospitable world	22
Landscape archetypes: counterpoints in the wilderness	24
Architectural archetypes: ways of defining space	27
Literary archetypes: heavenly paradises	31
Ingredients of the enclosed garden	35
Typology	37
Hortus ludi: the garden as spectacle	38
Hortus catalogus: ordering the plane	44
Hortus contemplationis: the abstraction of space	48
Genealogy of the hortus conclusus	56
Landscape transformations	61
Garden and landscape	62
Opening	71
Elaborating the vertical axis: the Gothic garden	71
The view across the wall: the French castle garden	80
The panorama as garden wall: the early Renaissance garden	83
Integration	86
Giardino segreto and panorama: the Renaissance garden	86
Cabinet de verdure and vista: the Baroque garden	94
Kitchen garden and unlimited space: the landscape garden	97
Dissolution	102
The Modern Movement and the demise of the enclosed garden	102

Urban transformations	109
Garden and city	110
Implantation	122
Monastery garden and hofje: the medieval town	122
Evolution	127
Cortile, hortus botanicus and town garden: the Renaissance city	128
Jardin d'hCtel, place and square: the Neo-classical city	135
The public park: the industrial city	141
Disassembly	142
Serial garden and collective lawn: the garden city	142
Ornamental garden and functional garden: the modernist city	143
Revival	145
Current transformations	153
Urban landscape and enclosed garden	154
Condensed emptiness	157
The enclosed garden as telescope	166
The captured landscape	168
The enclosed garden as field glass	180
Artificial nature	182
The enclosed garden as kaleidoscope	198
The hidden city	199
The enclosed garden as magnifying glass	207
A landscape with no horizon	209
Anatomy of the enclosed garden	210
The enclosed garden as urban landscape requisite	223
The range of the enclosed garden	244
Glossary / Literature / Index	246