

I-NET Enabled Customer Focus

The Case of
LGT Bank in Liechtenstein

FL H 2556 A

Special print for

Microsoft®

IWI-HSG

Institut für Wirtschaftsinformatik der Universität St. Gallen
Institute for Information Management University of St. Gallen

2.147.135

Table of Contents

	Page
Table of Contents	1
Imprint/Abstract	2
1 Introduction	3
1.1 Overview	3
1.2 Characteristics of I-NET Technology	3
1.3 Business-related Questions	4
1.4 Report Structure	4
1.5 Report Creation	4
2 LGT Bank in Liechtenstein: A Specialist in International Private Banking	5
2.1 Brief Portrait of LGT Bank in Liechtenstein	5
2.2 The Bank's Strategic Vision	5
2.3 The Bank's Client Structure	5
2.4 The Bank's Business Development	6
3 Project KUNO – Customer Focus as a Strategic Success Factor	7
3.1 Customer Focus in the Banking Industry	7
3.2 Significance for LGT Bank in Liechtenstein	7
3.3 Results of Project KUNO	8
4 KUNO Front System to Support Client Advisers	9
4.1 Information Requirements for Client Counseling	9
4.1.1 Information System at LGT Bank in Liechtenstein	9
4.1.2 Information Required for the Sales Process	9
4.2 I-NET Technology at LGT Bank in Liechtenstein	10
4.2.1 Intranet at LGT Bank in Liechtenstein	10
4.2.2 Reasons for the Use of I-NET Technology	10
4.2.3 Strategy for the Use of I-NET Technology	11
4.3 Structure and Functionality of the KUNO Front System	12
4.3.1 Overview	12
4.3.2 Contents	13
4.3.3 Functionality	16
4.3.4 Architecture	17
4.4 Integration at the Process Level	19
5 KUNO Front System – Just Another IS/IT Project?	20
5.1 Realization of the Project	20
5.2 Special Considerations	20
5.3 Cost/Benefit Analysis	21
6 Experience Gained with a Successful I-NET Launch	23
Bibliography	25

Fc H 2556 A