

Gender, Crime and Criminal Justice

Second edition

Sandra Walklate

WILLAN PUBLISHING

Contents

Preface and acknowledgments	ix
Introduction: Women and crime or gender and crime?	1
Introduction	1
Making sense of criminal statistics	i
Who are offenders?	4
Do men and women commit the same kinds of crime?	5
Do men and women offend for the same or different reasons?	6
Who are the victims of crime?	9
Who are the professionals in the criminal justice System?	10
The 'women and crime' debate	12
Why not just women and crime?	13
Conclusion	15
Overview and Organisation of this book	16
Suggestions for further reading	17
 Part 1 Theory
1 Criminology, victimology and feminism	21
Introduction	21
Gendering criminology	23
Sex, science and the criminal	26
Gendering victimology	33

Science constructs the male and the female	38
Liberal feminism	40
Radical feminism	42
Socialist feminism	44
Postmodern feminism	46
Feminism and criminology: a contradictions in terms?	47
Feminism and victimology: a contradiction in terms?	54
Postmodernism, criminology and victimology	57
Feminist criminology/feminist victimology: projects in construction?	58
Suggestions for further reading	59
2 Criminology, victimology and masculinism	61
Introduction	61
Ways of thinking about masculinity	62
Sex-role theory	65
Categorical theory	71
Doing gender	73
Biography and the psychoanalytical turn	76
Can men be victims?	77
Doing gender: a critical assessment	78
Conclusion	82
Suggestions for further reading	84
Part 2 Practice
3 Crime, fear and risk	87
Introduction	87
The 'fear of crime' debate	87
The 'irrationality' of the 'fear of crime'	89
Operationalising fear	90
Rationality and the 'fear of crime'	92
Is the fear of crime rational or irrational?	94
Feminist approaches to the 'fear of crime': fear as safety	95
Gendering risk	100
Men, fear and risk	101
Women, fear and risk	103
Risk and danger: alternative viewpoints	105
Domain assumptions of risk	107
Fear as feeling: anxiety?	110
Fear and trust	113
Conclusion	116
Suggestions for further reading	117

4 Gendering sexual violence	118
Introduction	118
Understanding rape	119
What about the rapist?	122
Understanding child abuse	125
Ways of understanding 'domestic' violence	127
Feminist perspectives on gender and violence	135
Gender and violence: a problematic relationship?	136
Conclusion	142
Suggestions for further reading	143
 Part 3 Policy
5 Is criminal justice wörk men's work?	147
Introduction	147
Appreciating policework	148
Policing during the 1980s	150
Understanding policewomen	159
Policing and equal opportunities	161
The Sheehy Report	165
Management in the police	166
What is policing about?	168
Towards a gendered agenda for policing	170
Conclusion: gender past the policing post	172
Suggestions for further reading	174
6 Gender, the law and criminal justice policy	175
Introduction	175
Understanding the law	177
Gender in court	178
Rapeontrial	182
Is there a case for a feminist jurisprudence?	185
Gender in the penal process	189
Restorative justice	194
Gendering crime prevention	196
Conclusion	197
Suggestions for further reading	198
Conclusion: Gender, crime and politics	199
Introduction	199
Women and crime or gender and crime?	203
Science, rationality and modernity	204
Masculinity or masculinities?	205

Gender, race and class	206
Sameness or difference?	207
The role of the State	208
The search for security: what about protection?	209
Conclusion	209
References	211
Index	227