

Knowledge Management in Organizations

A CRITICAL INTRODUCTION

Second Edition

DONALD HISLOP

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

List of figures	xix
List of tables	xx

1 The Contemporary Importance of Knowledge and Knowledge Management	1
Introduction	1
Key assumptions in the knowledge management literature	3
The knowledge society concept and its links to Bell's post-industrial society concept	3
A critical evaluation of the knowledge society concept	6
Aims, philosophy and structure	9
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	13
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	14

PART 1 Epistemologies of Knowledge in the Knowledge Management Literature

2 The Objectivist Perspective on Knowledge	18
Introduction	18
Objectivist perspectives on knowledge	18
The knowledge-based theory of the firm	21
Typologies of knowledge	22
Tacit and explicit knowledge	23
Individual-group knowledge	24
An objectivist perspective on the sharing and management of knowledge	26
Conduit model of knowledge sharing	26
Knowledge management processes	27
Conclusion	30
CASE STUDY: THE ROLE PLAYED BY THE ACQUISITION OF TACIT AND EXPLICIT KNOWLEDGE IN IMPROVING TASK PRODUCTIVITY	30
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	31
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	32

3 The Practice-Based Perspective on Knowledge	33
Introduction	33
Features of a practice-based perspective on knowledge	34
The embeddedness of knowledge in practice	34
Tacit and explicit knowledge are inseparable	36
Knowledge is embodied	37
The socially constructed and culturally embedded nature of knowledge	38
The contestable nature of knowledge	41
Implications for the nature of the organizational knowledge base	43
A practice-based perspective on the management and sharing of knowledge	44
Conclusion	46
CASE STUDY: A PRACTICE-BASED PERSPECTIVE ON WORK ACTIVITIES IN A GLOBAL SOFTWARE DEVELOPMENT COMPANY	47
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	48
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	49

PART 2 An Introduction to Key Concepts

4 What is Knowledge Management?	52
Introduction	52
To what extent can knowledge be managed?	53
What is management?	55
Knowledge management and business strategy	56
Conceptualizing the diversity of knowledge management strategies	59
Hansen et al. 's (1999) codification versus personalization framework	60
Earl's (2001) seven schools of knowledge management	62
Alvesson & Kärreman's (2001) four knowledge management approaches	66
Conclusion	68
CASE STUDY: SIEMENS' SHARENET INITIATIVE	69
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	69
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	70
5 Knowledge Intensive Firms and Knowledge Workers	71
Introduction	71
The rise of the knowledge worker	72
Defining knowledge workers and knowledge intensive firms: the professional knowledge work perspective	73
Defining knowledge workers: the 'all work is knowledge work' perspective	76

Knowledge work and ambiguity	79
Knowledge and knowledge processes in knowledge intensive firms	81
Types of knowledge	81
Knowledge processes	82
The willingness of knowledge workers to participate in knowledge processes: contrasting perspectives	84
Knowledge workers: the ideal employee?	85
Factors inhibiting knowledge workers' work efforts and knowledge management activities	85
Conclusion	87
CASE STUDY: SOCIAL CAPITAL AND THE ACQUISITION AND EXPLOITATION OF KNOWLEDGE IN HIGH TECHNOLOGY ORGANIZATIONS	87
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	89
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	89
6 Learning and Knowledge Management	90
Introduction	90
The heterogeneity of learning	91
Characterizing learning types	91
Learning mechanisms and processes	91
The dynamics of organizational learning	93
The learning organization: emancipation or exploitation?	97
The learning organization: the advocates vision	97
The learning organization: the sceptics perspective	101
Conclusion	106
CASE STUDY: THE DIFFICULTIES AND DYNAMICS OF PROJECT-BASED LEARNING	107
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	108
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	108

PART 3 Knowledge Creation and Loss

7 Innovation Dynamics and Knowledge Processes	113
Introduction	113
Characterizing innovation processes	114
Innovation as an interactive process	116
Knowledge creation and Nonaka	118
The limitations of Nonaka's knowledge creation theory	120
The social dynamics of innovation networking processes	123
Tacit knowledge and the social dynamics of innovation processes	124

The complexity of innovation related knowledge	125
The inter-relatedness of knowledge	126
Conclusion	126
CASE STUDY: APPLYING NONAKA'S SECI FRAMEWORK TO VEHICLE BUILDING	127
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	128
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	128
8 Forgetting and Unlearning Knowledge	130
Introduction	130
Conceptualizing organizational forgetting	131
Typology of forgetting	132
Barriers to unlearning	136
Individual level barriers to unlearning	136
Organizational level barriers to unlearning	139
Crisis as a barrier or stimulus to unlearning?	140
The facilitation of unlearning	141
Introducing new external ideas into an organization	141
Retraining staff	141
Changing organizational processes	142
Conclusion	142
CASE STUDY: THE INABILITY TO LEARN FROM FAILURE	143
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	144
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	144

PART 4 Socio-Cultural Issues Related to Managing and Sharing Knowledge

9 The Influence of Socio-Cultural Factors in Motivating Workers to Participate in Knowledge Management Initiatives	147
Introduction	147
The share/hoard dilemma	148
The context of the employment relationship: employer–employee relations in business organizations	151
The ubiquity of conflict in business organizations and its impact on knowledge processes	154
Inter-personal trust	156
Group identity	160
Personality	161

Conclusion	162
CASE STUDY: KNOWLEDGE HOARDING WITHIN 'FUNCTIONAL SILOS'	162
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	163
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	164
10 Communities of Practice	165
Introduction	165
Communities of practice: basic characteristics	166
Communities of practice: origins, features and dynamics	168
Communities of practice and the organizational knowledge base	170
Communities of practice and intra-community knowledge processes	172
Managing communities of practice	174
Critical perspectives on communities of practice	176
Power, conflict and the internal dynamics of communities	176
The heterogeneity of communities of practice	177
The misuse of the community of practice concept	178
Blinkered and inward looking communities	179
Conclusion	180
CASE STUDY: THE EMERGENCE AND DISINTEGRATION OF A COMMUNITY OF PRACTICE IN A WEB DESIGN COMPANY	180
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	182
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	182
11 Cross Community, Boundary Spanning Knowledge Processes	183
Introduction	183
The significance of cross community knowledge processes	185
Characterizing cross community knowledge processes	186
Identity	187
Knowledge	189
Identity, knowledge, trust and social relations	191
A classification of boundary types	193
Facilitating/managing knowledge between communities	194
Relationship management	195
Boundary objects	195
Conclusion	198
CASE STUDY: CROSS COMMUNITY COLLABORATION IN THE NEGOTIATION OF SAFETY ON AN ITALIAN BUILDING SITE	199
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	200
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	200

12 Power, Politics, Conflict and Knowledge Processes	201
Introduction	201
Two perspectives on power and the power/knowledge relationship	202
Power as a resource and the critical discourse on knowledge management	204
Theorizing power and power/knowledge relations	204
Linking power and knowledge to conflict and politics	206
Responses to power and the legitimacy of knowledge	208
The critical discourse on knowledge management and the inevitability of power and conflict in business organizations	210
Power/knowledge and the dialogical discourse on knowledge management	212
Conceptualizing power/knowledge	213
Discourse, power/knowledge and the legitimation of truth claims	214
Disciplinary power and the panopticon	215
Conclusion	216
CASE STUDY: THE NEGOTIATION OF MEANING IN A PROBLEM SOLVING CONTEXT	217
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	218
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	218
13 Information & Communication Technologies and Knowledge Management	220
Introduction	220
Linking knowledge management and ICTs	221
Objectivist perspectives on ICT-enabled knowledge management	223
Epistemological assumptions and ICTs	223
Objectivist perspectives on knowledge and the two roles for ICTs in knowledge management	224
Practice-based perspectives on ICT-enabled knowledge management	225
Epistemological assumptions and ICTs	225
Practice-based perspectives on knowledge and the two roles for ICTs in knowledge management	225
The importance of accounting for socio-cultural factors in ICT-enabled knowledge management	226
Debates regarding the role of ICTs in knowledge management processes	228
ICTs and perspective making/taking	229
ICTs and media richness	230
ICTs and developing/sustaining trust	231
Conclusion	235
CASE STUDY: HOW WORK PRACTICES SHAPE THE RELEVANCE AND USE OF ICT-ENABLED KNOWLEDGE MANAGEMENT	236
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	237
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	238

14 Facilitating Knowledge Management via Culture Management and HRM Practices	239
Introduction	239
Why culture management and HRM practices are important to knowledge management	240
The strategic role of the HRM function	243
Organizational culture and knowledge management	244
HRM practices and knowledge management	247
Recruitment and selection	248
Job design	248
Training	249
Coaching and mentoring	249
Reward and performance appraisal	250
HRM, staff retention and knowledge management	252
Conclusion	254
CASE STUDY: THE IMPACT OF SUB-CULTURES ON ORGANIZATIONAL KNOWLEDGE MANAGEMENT ACTIVITIES	255
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	256
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	257
15 Leadership and Knowledge Management	258
Introduction	258
The conceptualization of leadership in the academic business and management literature	259
Knowledge management and leadership	262
Knowledge management and leadership: limitations of existing perspectives	265
Conclusion	267
CASE STUDY: THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN EMPOWERING LEADERSHIP, KNOWLEDGE SHARING AND THE PERFORMANCE OF MANAGEMENT TEAMS	268
REVIEW AND DISCUSSION QUESTIONS	269
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	269
16 Reflections on the Topic of Knowledge Management	271
Introduction	271
Reflections on the knowledge management literature	271
Knowledge management as a fashion?	273
Understanding the processes and agents in the diffusion and consumption of knowledge on knowledge management	276

Gurus and the process of legitimation	278
Consultants and the commodification of management knowledge	279
The colonizing practices of large professional service firms	282
Business schools: due diligence, innovation and education	282
Conclusion	284
END OF BOOK ACTIVITY: NAME THE PLAYERS IN THE KNOWLEDGE MANAGEMENT PRODUCTION/CONSUMPTION CYCLE	284
SUGGESTIONS FOR FURTHER READING	285
References	287
Index	304