

Organizational Traps

By
Chris Argyris

Harvard University, Monitor GLP

Contents

Introduction	1
What do Traps and their Consequences Look Like?	1
Traps Can Lead to Disaster	3
The Organization of This Book	4

Part I. Why We Act Against Our Own Stated Interests

1. How We Deal with Difficult Situations	11
The Department of State and Secretary Rusk	12
Traps are Universal	• 16
Intel Corporation	18
Effects of Unilateral Leadership	- 20
The Perniciousness of Traps	22
2. Actions that Trap us	25
The Left-Hand-Right-Hand Case Method	. 26
Directions for Completing the Left-Hand- Right-Hand Case	27

Contents

A Preliminary View of the Cases	28
Case 1: Submerging the Primary Issue	30
Case 2: Closed to Learning	34
Case 3: Competing Models	37
Case 4: Easing In	44
Case 5: The CIO and the IT Group	48
Case 6: Advanced MB As	54
Conclusion	57
3. Causes of Traps	58
A Theory of Action	61
How We Create Traps	65
How Model I Theory-in-Use and Defensive ^ Reasoning Lead to Traps	74
Conclusion	78
Part II. How Conventional Approaches Bypass Traps—and What to Do About it
Introduction	83
4. Leadership and Traps	88
The Quantitative Approach	90
Leadership: A Historiometric Approach	94
Leadership: Qualitative Approaches	96
Becoming a Conflict Competent Leader	102
Narcissistic Leaders and Other Personality Types	104
Appreciative Inquiry	107
Competing Commitments	111

Inadequacies of Current Management Research	114
Conclusions	116
5. Culture, Leadership, and Traps (co-author Ian Smith)	118
. Productive and Counterproductive Cultures	119
The Andy Case	121
The Royal/Dutch Shell Case	125
Reflecting on Cultures and Traps	145
6. Strengthening New Approaches	151
Seeking Help from Outside Consultants	154
The Collaborative Community	165
Structural Approaches	175
The Ambidextrous Organization	179
Human Potential	182
Conclusion	186
Conclusion: Traps and the Human Predicament	188
The Attempt to Find New Ways Forward	191
Helping Moon Shots to Succeed	195
The Human Predicament	197
Bibliography	201
Index	207