I. CHIROPTEROLOGICAL SECTION	1
Chapter 1. The Gradual Increase in the Number of Known Species and Subspecies in the Order of Chiroptera	1
Approximate Numbers of Forms Mentioned by Some Authors	2
Number of Recognized Forms, Species and Subspecies of Bats	3
Chapter 2. Geographical Distribution	6
Distribution of Families	8
Chapter 3. Polar Limits	18
Northern Limits	18
Southern Limits	21
Light Summer Nights	22
Summer Temperatures in Relation to the Northern Limits	24
Winter Temperature and Hibernation	28
Chapter 4. Altitudinal Limits	34
Some Records at High Altitudes	35
Altitudinal Limits in Different Latitudes	39
Parallellism Between Highland and Polar Limits	40
Chapter 5. Occurrence in Isolated Islands	43
Spreading to Isolated Islands	45
Chapter 6. Relation Between the Bat Faunas of the Old and the New Worlds	47
Presumptive Parallel Genera	51
Presumptive Parallel Species	52
Chapter 7. Manners of Displacement and Possibilities of Distribution	54
Flight	54
Ambulation	55
Climbing	55
Swimming	56
Possible Synanthropic Distribution	60
Circumstances Making Synanthropic Distribution Improbable	61
Chapter 8. Marking Experiments	63
The Theories of Migration in the Light of the Ringmarking Results	66
Refindings at Great Distances from the Marking-Place	68
Home-Flying Experiments	69

	Page
Home-Flying Experiments with Nyctalus noctula SCHREBER 1774	70
Home-Flying Experiments with Plecotus auritus LINNAEUS 1758	71
Home-Flying Experiments with Pipistrellus pipistrellus SCHREBER 1774	71
Is Naturalization of Bats Possible?	74
Alternative Roosting-Places	74
Alternative Roosting-Places of Pipistrellus pipistrellus SCHREBER 1774 ..	76
Alternative Roosting-Places of Nyctalus noctula SCHREBER 1774	76
Age Determination	77
Chapter 9. Species Occuring in the North	79
Nomenclature	79
Distribution of the Northern Species	80
Species Wrongly Stated from the North	95
The Poverty of the Northern Fauna	97
Chapter 10. The Roosting Places of Bats	98

Chapter 12: Nutrition	116
Food, Feeding and Drinking	116
Abnormal Foods	118
Excreta, Defecation and Urination	122
Chapter 13. Flying and Hunting, Hunting Grounds	125
Chapter 14. Sound Production	130
Vocal Sounds	130
Buzzing Sounds	132
Nasal Sounds	133
Sounds in Connection with Eating and Drinking	133
Cleaning Sounds	134
Muscular Sounds	134
Wing Sounds	134
Chapter 15. Variation in Fertility and First Certain Observation of Triplet Birth in the Old World	136
Development and Fertility in Nyctalus noctula SCHREBER 1774. (Cf. also Diagram I)	136
Doubtful Records of more than two Young	138
Occasional Occurrence of Supernumerary (3—4) Embryos	139
Reduction in Fertility and Number of Mamillae in Relation to the Power of Flight	142
Fertility in Different Families and its Relation to Number of Mamillae and Types of Uterus. (Cf. also Table I)	142
Geographical Fertility Variation in European Species. (Cf. also Table II) ..	143
Variation in Fertility and Uterin Structure	145
Relation Between Fertility and Asymmetry in Uterin Function and Structure	146
Relation Between Fertility and Function of Female Sexual Organs	147
Relation Between Fertility and Mothers Age	150
Rearing Capacity and Development in Different Sized Litters	151
Number of Mamillae in Relation to Fertility	151
Occurrence of Pubic Mamillae and Mammae	155
Occurrence of Mamillae and Gynaecomastia in Male Bats	157
Chapter 16. Weight	159
Weight of Non-Pregnant, Adult Northern Bats	160
