

Reconnecting Marketing to Markets

Edited by

Luis Araujo

John Finch and

Hans Kjellberg

- UNIVERSITÄT
- LIECHTENSTEIN

Bibliothek

OXJORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

D CONTENTS

FOREWORD BY L.-G. MATSSON	v
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	xi
LIST OF FIGURES	XII
LIST OF TABLES	xiii
LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS	xiv
Reconnecting marketing to markets: an introduction L. Araujo, J. Finch, and H. Kjellberg	1
1 Consumption, materiality, and markets E. Shove and L. Araujo	13
2 Reconnecting marketing to 'market-things': How grocery equipment drove modern consumption [Progressive Grocer , 1929-1959) F. Cochoy	29
3 Exchanging agencies: The case of NetOnNet J. Hagberg	50
4 Product tastes, consumer tastes: The plurality of qualifications in product development and marketing activities S. Dubuisson-Quellier	74
5 Governing firms, shaping markets: The role of calculative devices F. Azimont and L. Araujo	94
6 Markets are trading zones: On the material, cultural, and interpretative dimensions of market encounters J. Finch and S. Geiger	117
7 Tinkering with market actors: How a business association's practices contribute to dual agency L. Fries	138
8 The unexpected effects of gas market liberalization: Inherited devices and new practices T. Reverdy,	158

x CONTENTS

9 Marketing on trial: The SAS EuroBonus case	181
H. Kjellberg
10 Trading bads and goods: Market practices in Fair Trade retailing	204
D. Neyland and E. Simakova
Marketing as an art and science of market framing: Commentary	224
M. Callon
Connecting to markets: Conclusion	234
L. Araujo, J. Finch, and H. Kjellberg
BIBLIOGRAPHY	246
INDEX	267