

Knowledge Management in Organizations

A Critical Introduction

THIRD EDITION

Donald Hislop

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Detailed Contents

List of Figures xviii

List of Tables xix

1 The Contemporary Importance of Knowledge and Knowledge Management	1
Introduction	1
Key Assumptions in the Knowledge Management Literature	2
The Knowledge Society Concept and its Links to Bell's Post-Industrial Society Concept	3
A Critical Evaluation of the Knowledge Society Concept	5
Aims, Philosophy, and Structure	8
Review and Discussion Questions	12
Suggestions for Further Reading	12

PART 1 Epistemologies of Knowledge in the Knowledge Management Literature

2 The Objectivist Perspective on Knowledge	17
Introduction	17
Objectivist Perspectives on Knowledge	17
The Knowledge-Based Theory of the Firm	19
Typologies of Knowledge	20
Tacit and explicit knowledge	21
Individual-group knowledge	23
An Objectivist Perspective on the Sharing and Management of Knowledge	25
Conduit model of knowledge sharing	25
Knowledge management processes	26
Conclusion	28
Case study: Motivating workers to develop firm-specific knowledge via the use of different governance mechanisms	28
Review and Discussion Questions	29
Suggestions for Further Reading	30
3 The Practice-Based Perspective on Knowledge	31
Introduction	31
Features of a Practice-Based Perspective on Knowledge	32
The embeddedness of knowledge in practice	32
Knowledge as multidimensional and non-dichotomous	33

Knowledge is embodied	36
The socially constructed and culturally embedded nature of knowledge	37
The contestable nature of knowledge	39
A Practice-Based Perspective on the Management and Sharing of Knowledge	41
Conclusion	43
Case study: A practice-based perspective on telemedicine	44
Review and Discussion Questions	45
Suggestions for Further Reading	45

PART 2 An Introduction to Key Concepts

4 What is Knowledge Management?	49
Introduction	49
What is Management?	49
Factors Influencing Organizational Approaches to Knowledge Management	51
Conceptualizing the Diversity of Knowledge Management Strategies	55
Hansen et al. 's (1999) codification versus personalization framework	57
Earl's (2001) seven schools of knowledge management	58
Alvesson and Karreman's (2001) four knowledge management approaches	62
Conclusion	64
Case study: The relationship between the structure/strategy of multinational corporations and patterns of knowledge sharing within them	64
Review and Discussion Questions	66
Suggestions for Further Reading	66
5 Knowledge-Intensive Firms and Knowledge Workers	67
Introduction	67
The Knowledge Economy and the Growing Importance of Knowledge-Intensive Firms and Knowledge Workers	68
Defining and Characterizing Knowledge-Intensive Firms	69
Defining Knowledge Workers: The Professional Knowledge Work Perspective	70
Defining Knowledge Workers: The 'All Work is Knowledge Work' Perspective	72
Knowledge Work and Ambiguity	75
Knowledge and Knowledge Processes in Knowledge-Intensive Firms	77
Knowledge creation	77
Knowledge integration/application	77
The Willingness of Knowledge Workers to Participate in Knowledge Processes: Contrasting Perspectives	79
Knowledge workers. The ideal employee?	79
Factors inhibiting knowledge workers' work efforts and knowledge management activities	80
Conclusion	81

Case study: The linkages between learning orientation, knowledge assets, and HR practices in professional service firms	81
Review and Discussion Questions	83
Suggestions for Further Reading	83
6 Learning and Knowledge Management	84
Introduction	84
The Heterogeneity of Learning	85
Characterizing learning types	85
Learning mechanisms and processes	85
The Dynamics of Organizational Learning	87
The Learning Organization: Emancipation or Exploitation?	89
The learning organization: the advocates' vision	90
The learning organization: the sceptics' perspective	93
Conclusion	98
Case study: The role of time and discontinuities in shaping the complex dynamics of organizational learning	98
Review and Discussion Questions	100
Suggestions for Further Reading	100

PART 3 Knowledge Creation and Organizational Unlearning

7 Nonaka and Knowledge Creation Theory	105
Introduction	105
The Scope and Evolution of Nonaka's Knowledge Creation Theory	106
The Epistemology of Knowledge Creation Theory	107
SECI and Knowledge Creation/Conversion	108
Ba/Space	111
Leadership/Management and Knowledge Creation	113
The Critique of Nonaka's Knowledge Creation Theory	114
Conclusion	118
Case study: Enabling knowledge creation within Nissan's Oppama production plant	118
Review and Discussion Questions	120
Suggestions for Further Reading	120
8 Unlearning and the Deliberate Loss of Knowledge	121
Introduction	121
Unlearning as a Type of Deliberate Forgetting	123
Unlearning, Learning, and Change	125
Antecedents of Unlearning	127
Individual-level antecedents of unlearning	128
Organizational-level antecedents of unlearning	129

Conclusion	131
Case study: The impact of team reflexivity and stress on unlearning and innovation in new product development teams	132
Review and Discussion Questions	133
Suggestions for Further Reading	133

PART 4 Socio-Cultural Issues Related to Managing and Sharing Knowledge

9 The Influence of Socio-Cultural Factors in Motivating Workers to Participate in Knowledge Management Initiatives	137
Introduction	137
The Share/Hoard Dilemma	138
The Context of the Employment Relationship: Employer–Employee Relations in Business Organizations	140
The Ubiquity of Conflict in Business Organizations and its Impact on Knowledge Processes	142
Interpersonal Trust	144
Group Identity	148
National Culture	148
Personality	150
Conclusion	151
Case study: Problems with the management of patient safety knowledge within the UK's National Health Service	152
Review and Discussion Questions	153
Suggestions for Further Reading	153
10 Communities of Practice	155
Introduction	155
Communities of Practice: Basic Characteristics	156
Communities of Practice: Origins, Features, and Dynamics	157
Communities of Practice and Intra-Community Knowledge Processes	159
Managing Communities of Practice	160
Critical Perspectives on Communities of Practice	163
Power, conflict, and the internal dynamics of communities	163
The heterogeneity of communities of practice	165
The misuse of the community of practice concept	165
Blinkered and inward-looking communities	166
Conclusion	167
Case study: Communities of practice and career trajectories in the British advertising industry	167
Review and Discussion Questions	168
Suggestions for Further Reading	169

11	Cross-Community, Boundary-Spanning Knowledge Processes	170
	Introduction	170
	The Significance of Cross-Community Collaboration	172
	Characterizing Cross-Community Knowledge Processes	173
	Identity	174
	Knowledge	175
	Identity, Knowledge, Trust, and Social Relations	177
	A Classification of Boundary Types	179
	Facilitating/Managing Knowledge between Communities	180
	Relationship management	181
	Boundary objects	181
	Conclusion	184
	Case study: The negotiation of meaning within multidisciplinary medical teams	185
	Review and Discussion Questions	186
	Suggestions for Further Reading	186
12	Power, Politics, Conflict, and Knowledge Processes	187
	Introduction	187
	Two Perspectives on Power and the Power/Knowledge Relationship	188
	Power as a Resource and the Critical Discourse on Knowledge Management	190
	Theorizing power and power/knowledge relations	190
	Linking power and knowledge to conflict and politics	192
	The critical discourse on knowledge management and the inevitability of power and conflict in business organizations	195
	Power/Knowledge and the Dialogical Discourse on Knowledge Management	197
	Conceptualizing power/knowledge	197
	Discourse, power/knowledge, and the legitimation of truth claims	198
	Conclusion	199
	Case study: Power/knowledge struggles between HR practitioners	199
	Review and Discussion Questions	200
	Suggestions for Further Reading	201
13	Information and Communication Technologies and Knowledge Management	202
	Introduction	202
	Linking Knowledge Management and ICTs	203
	The Importance of Accounting for Socio-Cultural Factors in ICT-Enabled Knowledge Management	205
	Objectivist Perspectives on ICT-Enabled Knowledge Management	206
	Epistemological assumptions and ICTs	206
	Objectivist perspectives on knowledge and the two roles for ICTs in knowledge management	207
	Practice-Based Perspectives on ICT-Enabled Knowledge Management	208
	Epistemological assumptions and ICTs	208

Practice-based perspectives on knowledge and the two roles for ICTs in knowledge management	209
Debates Regarding the Role of ICTs in Knowledge Management Processes	212
ICTs and communication/media richness	212
ICTs and developing/sustaining trust	214
Conclusion	216
• Case study: Using Web 2.0 technology to help build a knowledge-sharing culture	217
Review and Discussion Questions	218
Suggestions for Further Reading	218
14 Facilitating Knowledge Management via the Use of Human Resource Management Practices	220
Introduction	220
Why HRM Practices are Important to Knowledge Management	221
HRM Practices and Knowledge Management	223
Recruitment and selection	223
Job design	224
Training	225
Coaching and mentoring	226
Reward and performance appraisal	227
HRM, Staff Retention, and Knowledge Management	228
Conclusion	231
• Case study: The impact of HR practices on interpersonal relations and knowledge processes	231
Review and Discussion Questions	232
Suggestions for Further Reading	233
15 Leadership, Organization Culture Management, and Knowledge Management	234
Introduction	234
The Impact of Organizational Culture on Knowledge Management Activities	235
Creating and Managing an Organizational Culture to Support Knowledge Management Activities	239
The Conceptualization of Leadership in the Academic Business and Management Literature	242
Knowledge Management and Leadership	244
Conclusion	247
Case study: Leadership, culture, and knowledge management within Australian SMEs	248
Review and Discussion Questions	249
Suggestions for Further Reading	249
16 Reflections on the Topic of Knowledge Management	250
Introduction	250
Reflection on the Character and Focus of the Academic Knowledge Management Literature	250

Knowledge Management as a Fashion?	252
Conceptualizing management fashions	252
The evolution of academic interest in knowledge management	253
The evolving interest of global consultants and professional service firms in knowledge management	254
The interest of business organizations in managing knowledge	255
Conclusion	256
Suggestions for Further Reading	257
References	259
Index	279