

Encountering the World

Toward an Ecological Psychology

EDWARD S. REED

New York Oxford
Oxford University Press
1996

Contents

Introduction: The Significance of the Psychological, 3

- 1 Regulation versus Construction, 9
- 2 An Evolutionary Psychology, 20
- 3 AfFordances: A New Ecology for Psychology, 29
- 4 The Importance of Information, 47
- 5 Functional Systems and the Mechanisms of Behavior, 68
- 6 Varieties of Action Systems, 83
- 7 The Effort After Value and Meaning, 96
- 8 The Human Environment, 111
- 9 Becoming a Person, 126
- 10 The Daily Life of the Mind, 140
- 11 Entering the Linguistic Environment, 153
- 12 Streams of Thought, 169

Epilogue: The Significance of Ecological Psychology, 184

References, 191

Index, 207