

Thomas Bieger

Marketing Concept – The St.Gallen Management Approach

Haupt Verlag

Contents

Preface	5
Table of Figures	11
1 Business processes and marketing concept within the St. Gallen Management Model — an introduction	15
1.1 Case study LADERACH	15
1.2 Value-creation processes, companies and management	18
1.3 Embedding business processes into the St. Gallen Management Model	23
1.3.1 Stakeholders	25
1.3.2 Environmental spheres	26
1.3.3 Environments and sustainability	28
1.3.4 Horizons of meaning	29
1.3.5 Business processes within the St. Gallen Management Model	30
1.4 Objectives of business processes	32
1.5 Structure of business processes	36
1.5.1 Performance processes	36
1.5.2 Customer processes	38
1.5.3 Innovation processes	41
1.6 The marketing approach for the management of business processes	45
1.6.1 Development of marketing	45
1.6.2 Marketing concept	47
2 Market analysis as the basis for market-oriented business management	49
2.1 Case study MAMMUT	49
2.2 Customer behavior and markets	51
2.2.1 Definition and role of markets	51
2.2.2 Players and market types	52

2.2.3	Motives, needs, benefit and demand	57
2.3	Market research objectives and data generation	63
2.3.1	Identifying market sizes, needs and decision-making	63
2.3.2	Supply-and-demand trends	67
2.4	SWOT analysis as a synthesis of market analysis	74
3	Marketing strategy — from market segmentation to a positioning strategy	77
3.1	Case study JURA	77
3.2	Marketing objectives	79
3.2.1	Corporate objectives and marketing objectives	80
3.2.2	Interaction of marketing objectives	82
3.3	From market segmentation to a positioning strategy	84
3.3.1	Segmentation criteria and segmentation level	84
3.3.2	Choice of target market	88
3.3.3	Positioning	89
3.4	From customer processes to tool strategy	90
3.4.1	Determinants of tool application	90
3.4.2	Focus on marketing tool application in the marketing mix	94
4	Product design and performance	97
4.1	Case study STADLER RAIL AG	97
4.2	Product design	99
4.3	Performance provision — physical product	105
4.3.1	Basic structure of the performance process	105
4.3.2	Strategic decisions	106
4.3.3	Operational decisions	109
4.4	Performance provision — services	110
4.4.1	Characteristic features of services	111
4.4.2	Performance design and control of the service process	114
4.4.3	From service chain to service blueprint	117
5	Marketing tool application	121
5.1	Case study JUNGFRAUBAHN	121
5.2	Pricing policy	123
5.2.1	Neoclassic pricing model	124
5.2.2	Behavioral-science pricing models	126
5.2.3	Functions of pricing	128

5.3	Distribution policy	131
5.3.1	Functions of distribution	132
5.3.2	Distribution design	132
5.4	Communication	135
5.4.1	Role and function of communication	136
5.4.2	Organizational scopes of communication	137
5.4.3	Communication change	139
5.5	Marketing mix	140
5.5.1	Objectives of the marketing mix	140
5.5.2	Planning the marketing mix	141
6	Controlling and innovation	143
6.1	Case study Swiss web portal	143
6.2	Marketing controlling	145
6.2.1	Development of a controlling concept	146
6.2.2	Characteristics of marketing controlling	148
6.2.3	Contribution accounting	149
6.3	Innovation	151
6.3.1	Functions, roles and tools of innovation	151
6.3.2	Return on innovation	152
6.3.3	Innovation in models	154
6.3.4	Innovations directions of impact	155
	Bibliography	159
	Alphabetical index	177