

The university is now on air,
broadcasting modern architecture

Eight episodes by Joaquim Moreno

In conversation with
Tim Benton
Nick Levinson
Adrian Forty
Joseph Rykwert
Stephen Bayley

With contributions by Nick Beech
Laura Carter
Ben Highmore
Joseph Bedford

Published by Canadian Centre for Architecture
Jap Sam Books

The university is now on air,
broadcasting modern architecture

Episodes by Joaquim Moreno

Episode One	Shared Audience, Open Education	16
	Culture, Education, and Class in 1960s Britain: New media, New Universities, and the New Left —Nick Beech	44
Episode Two	Broadcasting the Modern Movement	60
	Tim Benton A305 Course Team chair	90
Episode Three	The Factory of the Air	100
	Nick Levinson A305 Series Producer	125
	Higher Education and the Pedagogies of Communicating Elite Knowledge in 1970s Britain —Laura Carter	137
Episode Four	Classroom of Solitudes	150
	Televarsity: At Home with The Open University —Ben Highmore	177
	Adrian Forty A305 Course Team member	185
Episode Five	The Course Was Listening	196
	Joseph Rykwert A305 External Examiner	222
Episode Six	Examining the Everyday	230
	Writing and Teaching Architectural History in the Second Machine Age —Joseph Bedford	257
Episode Seven	Would You Like to Live in Villa Savoye?	274
	Stephen Bayley A305 Course Team member	302
Episode Eight	Still the Housing Question	306
	Index of A305, History of Architecture and Design 1890-1939 course materials	329
	Works cited, index, biographies, and credits	345
	Guide to object photography	360